Links are now available on the website for 2014-2018.
2009-2013 are not available in a shared drive.

I clicked on the links to try and access a couple of the share drives that were added to the web page, and Google told me to submit a request to acquire permission to see them, so I did that. I would appreciate it if AGFD soon granted me that permission, as it would just be more work for everybody if I have to submit a Public Records Request to see the information.

Those links wont be back up in the near future.

You certainly are welcome to submit a public records request.
